CHILDREN'S AND MARDI GRAS PARADES FEATURES

Cold Rain Did Not Dampen Spirits Of Celebrants

A cold rain which fell intermittently throughout Friday failed to dampen the interest in Dixon's second annual Fall Festival. Another large crowd thronged the streets throughout the afternoon and evening. The feature of the day was the school children's parade in the afternoon which brought out the largest assemblage of children that has ever marched through the business section of the city.

This feature of Friday's program was a most difficult one for the judges to decide. Every department showed a great deal of preparation and interest in the program. The E. C. Smith grade school turned out 100 per cent for the parade and the seventh grade from that building, dressed as crusaders won first prize. The seventh grade of the North Central school was second and the sixth and seventh grades from St. Mary's parochial school, who marched as a unit, won third prize. The judges were O. H. Martin, William Covert, Joe Miller, Royal Fitzsimmons and Arthur McCrystal.

Last evening the rain again interfered and at times, turned into a downpour. The Mardi Gras costumes were beautiful and varied and the judges awarded the prizes as follows:

Most original costume, Harold Howell of Dixon, first and Maxine Gardner, second. The prize winner was awarded a southern negro plantation worker and Miss Gardner as an old fashioned woman.

Judges Surprised
Mrs. Barbara Larson, attired in a beautiful pink colonial costume, was awarded first prize for fancy costume and Miss Gladys Derr, dressed as a Russian cosack was second. In the men's division, the judges were as much surprised as the large crowd who witnessed the entrants when they awarded the prizes they discovered that Miss Lucia Spencer, attired as a Colonial gentleman was the winner. Joe Dubien of this city in a Mexican costume was awarded second prize.

The old time fiddler's contest yesterday afternoon brought out seven entries and three members of the Rochelle band acted as judges, awarding prizes as follows:

Tom Ray of Walnut, first; Guy Donaldson of Polo, second and W. H. Snook of Polo, third. B. Franklin of Nachusa, O. B. Hawkins of Oregon, William Exner of Walnut, and T. S. Cross of this city were the other entrants.

E. Fordham of this city led the field in the horse-shoe pitching contest yesterday afternoon. The rules required that each contestant toss 100 shoes and Fordham scored 121 points with 23 ringers. James Leach of the Bend was second with a score of 96 with 16 ringers. C. Read of Oregon, George Beck and W. Wister of Polo and Hubert Bahen of South Dixon were the other contestants. The judges were Frank Sproul, Louis Knick and Mark D. Smith.

In the essay contest for school pupils, the prizes have been awarded as follows:

Group one, fifth and sixth grades—Ruth Brantner, Emily Swan, Geraldine Reis, Dick Durkes, Frances Elschell, Ethel Kline, Donald Campbell, Charlotte Risley, Frances Crawford, Junior Hoyte.

Group two, seventh and eighth grades—Helen Kuhn, Vivian Cookley, Kathryn Sharpe, Ruth Bartholomew, Elizabeth Kennedy, Mary Davies, Bernice Schildberg, Dorothy Whitmore, Louise Warner, Cleo Thurm.

Group three, Freshman-sophomore—Yvonne Henry, Rosemary Heeg, Lillian Covert, Margaret Strock, Helen Travis, Wilbur Currens, William Wedlock, Clark Cahill, Elizabeth Ford, Dorothy Gerndt.

Group four, junior-senior—Merna Suter, Helen Schwartz, Violet Parker, Helen Miller, Wilson Walker, Winston Schmidt, Marion Sullivan, Dean Hey, Grace Crawford.

The prize to the art department will be a gift for the use of this department for work in making the attractive posters which are on display in many of the store windows.

Rural school prizes—Frances Lee Dupuy, Helen Cash, Margaret Reigle, M. Lawton, Winifred Johnson, and Arland Clark.

Dixon's second annual Fall Festival is a pronounced success. Despite the cool and unsettled weather every thing went off on schedule time and there were no breaks from the start to the finish. Today's program with sunshine, was a success. One of the biggest features of the festival program was the school children's parade—and pronounced by everyone as the best of its kind ever seen in Dixon.

Thousands of people visited Dixon Thursday and Friday and today the

MARTIN INSULL HOME ROBBED OF $10,000 IN JEWELS

Robbery Last Tuesday Not Made Public Until This Morning

Chicago, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Jewelry valued at $10,000 was taken from the Highland Park home of Martin Insull last Tuesday night, police of the north shore suburb made known today.

Virtually every article of jewelry in the home was taken, the loot including a platinum bracelet set with 38 diamonds, a multiple diamond and sapphire ring of platinum, a platinum bracelet studded with 44 small diamonds, and many other articles of great value. The inventory of the loss was given to the police who said $10,000 was the approximate value.

The police believed the burglar entered the house by climbing to the roof and sliding down a drainpipe to the bedroom window. The burglary occurred in early evening either while the family was at dinner or during the few moments when Mrs. Insull drove to the railroad station to meet her husband.

The Insull home is at 428 N. Sheridan Road in Highland Park, north shore suburb. Mrs. Insull was not at home today and her husband, the brother of Samuel Insull, could not be reached at his office.

Chief Edward Maroney of the Highland Park police is directing an investigation.

WILL NOT CALL FALL TO STAND TO TELL STORY

Condition of Health Is Such That He Can Not Testify

BULLETIN

Washington, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Frank Hogan, chief counsel for Albert E. Fall, on trial on charges of accepting a bribe, announced today that Fall had instructed him that in the event his illness again prevented his appearance in court, he should waive his right as a defendant to be present.

Washington, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Appearing somewhat stronger, Albert E. Fall appeared in District of Columbia Supreme Court today as E. C. Finney, First Assistant Secretary of Interior at the time Fall was secretary, took the witness stand to testify in the bribery charges against Fall growing out of the Elks Hills naval oil lease to Edward L. Doheny.

Had Good Night
Fall's family said the former Interior Department head had rested well last night and apparently was none the worse for his presence at the trial although four court physicians have reported he would endanger his life if the case continued.

The cross examination of Finney was directed by defense counsel toward testimony designed to show that seven companies had bid on the lease Fall awarded Doheny's Company.

The defense also sought to show that all matters relating to naval oil reserves had been turned over to the Navy by Fall, thus making it impossible for Fall to have awarded Doheny the lease for $100,000, as charged by the government.

Doheny sat on one side of Fall while the former Cabinet officer's physician and nurse were on the other side.

Will Not Call Fall
Defense counsel announced today that Fall would not be called to testify and it is expected the case will be submitted to the jury at the end of the next week.

Frank Hogan, chief defense counsel, said it was obvious Fall was unfit to take the stand, but added he would call Edward L. Doheny, who has said the $100,000 loan to Fall was a loan to an old friend. He also said he would call Mrs. Doheny among other witnesses.

May End Next Week

The deposition of Edward L. Doheny, Jr., now dead, at the conspiracy trial of his father and Fall three years ago also will be introduced, he added.

Owen J. Roberts, special government counsel, said he would seek to introduce testimony and documents concerning Fall's dealings with Harry F. Sinclair which resulted in the lease of the Teapot Dome naval reserve to Sinclair.

The defense expects to conclude in four days, at the most, while government counsel said it would require a day and a half or two days.

Kennel Club Denied Injunction by Court

Belleville, Ill., Oct. 12.—(UP)—The county of St. Clair was "one up" on the Mississippi Valley Kennel Club today in the fight of the kennel club to open a dog track with betting at Cahokia, Ill., near East St. Louis.

The Circuit Court here yesterday refused the Kennel club's petition for an injunction to restrain county authorities from raiding the track "the first night it opens."

The threat to raid the track if any bets were placed on the racing dogs is a standing one, made months ago by State's Attorney Lindlauer, and reiterated several times by county authorities.

Circuit Judge Miller, in refusing the injunction, held that the usual system of betting on the dogs is a violation of the Illinois state Constitution.

Australians Vote

Sydney, Australia, Oct. 12.—(UP)—The government's defeat in today's general election was indicated as probable on the face of returns tabulated just before midnight.

The government, headed by Premier Stanley M. Bruce, had gone to the country on the labor arbitration issue, after the Labor Party had defeated the Nationalist-Country party coalition in the House of Representatives. In today's election a new House membership was voted upon.

The American League Champions Now Need But One Victory

Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Oct. 12.—(AP)—With the greatest batting rally ever staged in a world series game, the Athletics today pounded four pitchers to score ten runs in the seventh inning and overhauled the Cubs to lead by 10 to 8 in the fourth and most exciting game of the championship struggle.

GANGLAND GUNS BLAZED AGAIN LAST EVENING

One Racketeer Killed: Another Probably Fatally Shot

Chicago, Oct. 12.—(UP)—Gangland guns have blazed again, leaving one man dead and another probably fatally wounded.

The body of Attilio Fanella, 34, a Chicago baker said by police to have engaged in "cooking" alcohol, was found last night in Bensville, a suburb of Hammond, Ind. There were six bullets in his head. Police said he had incurred the enmity of a group of South Chicago alcohol racketeers.

More than a score of shots were fired in a battle at the Windmill Tavern last night when Joseph Touhey, 35, said to be a Maywood runner, led four companions in an asserted attempt to take Victor Wilfert, proprietor of the roadhouse, for a "ride."

Touhey fell with a bullet in his chest above the heart and his pals fled.

The quintet of gunmen broke into the roadhouse after closing time and dragged Sophie Kolanowski, 29, a maid, from bed and threw her to the floor. Wilfert told police. He said the maid was seriously ill of pneumonia.

The battle began when Wilfert came in from another room and barricaded himself behind the bar.

Touhey is a brother of Johnny Touhey, beer gang chief shot to death in a gun fight with rival bootleggers two years ago.

Last night's raid was attributed to trouble over the beer racket in the suburbs.

FEDERAL AGENTS INVESTIGATING WOMEN'S DEATHS

Body of Nurse, Reported Strangled, Will Be Exhumed

Washington, Oct. 12.—(AP)—New rumors and information bearing on the Capital's two sensational strangling cases, engaged police and Department of Justice investigators today as a Senate committee prepared to begin a sweeping inquiry into District of Columbia affairs.

Greatest activity was shown in the Justice Department's investigation of the death of young Mrs. Virginia McPherson, first called a suicide, then placed before the grand jury and now described as murder with her estranged husband of eight months, Robert A. McPherson, Jr. charged with the crime.

Accusations of bungling in that case will provide the main spring for the Senate investigation ordered under a resolution by Senator Blease, Democrat, South Carolina, to go into the administration of the police department, the District Attorney's office and the District of Columbia Commissioners.

To Exhume Body

Questioning of Dr. Thomas Balleed of New York, once a close friend of Mrs. McPherson, has occupied Justice Department agents for hours and been attended by frequent hurried trips to various parts of the city. While the information he has divulged has not been disclosed, he was regarded as a highly important witness to bring out circumstances thought to bear on the young nurse's death.

Other agents, meanwhile, were sent to China Grove, N. C., to exhumate the body, which was found in her room with a pajama belt tightly knotted around the throat, for a new thorough autopsy with a view particularly to finding out whether she was operated on shortly before her death and whether her skull was fractured.

Exhumation of the body of young Miss Marjorie O'Donnell at Pittsburgh on behalf of the police charged with investigating her more recent strangulation also was considered to find out whether her wrists were broken.

WAIT OFFICIAL REQUEST

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 12.—(UP)—Pending a conference of Washington authorities, no efforts will be made to exhumate the body of Marjorie O'Donnell, former Pittsburgh girl, who was strangled to death in a Washington hotel Monday.

Coroner McGregor said yesterday after her secret burial here.

A few hours after the funeral of Miss O'Donnell in Calvary cemetery a telegram was sent to Pittsburgh detectives, asking them to examine the body to determine if the girl's wrists had been fractured.

Coroner McGregor informed Capt. Emerson that the girl had been buried and it was decided no action should be taken unless an official request is received through the District Attorney's office in Washington.

President Will Not Make Trip to Europe

Washington, Oct. 12.—(AP)—It was learned today at the White House that President Hoover has no intention of leaving the western hemisphere at any time during his term in office.

This information came in response to newspaper reports that the Chief Executive would return the visit of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald at some time in the near future.

There also had been some speculation as to whether Mr. Hoover would go to London for the coming conference on the limitation of naval armaments.

While precluding any visit to Europe during the time that he is in office, Mr. Hoover has left the way open for journeys to Mexico City and Cuba which have indicated as being contemplated by the Chief Executive.

Babies Witnessed Death of Parents

Chicago, Oct. 12.—(UP)—Three-year-old Billy Sockmuka, orphaned overnight and confused by so many policemen, tried to tell today what happened in his home last night before his mother and father were found shot to death.

Billy and his little brother, Jacob, 17 months, were keeping a gruesome vigil by the side of their parents' bodies when neighbors, hearing their cries of hunger, broke in and discovered them.

From appearances in the modest flat, police believe Sockmuka killed his wife and committed suicide.

When police tried to question Billy, he cried for his mother.

Capt. Daniel Gilbert bought a big supply of candy and bananas and hoped later to induce Billy to tell the whole story.

TODAY'S MARKET REPORTS

Weekly Grain

By JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor
Chicago, Oct. 12.—(AP)—For the first time in record, so trade reports current today assert, Canada and the United States are holding wheat for a seller's price. It is added that other countries are being virtually told to pay up or go without, latest unofficial and semi-official reports indicating that the world's wheat crop is 500,000,000 bushels less than last year.

At least temporarily, however, absence of customary demand from importing countries has pointed to something of a general deadlock to enforce a buyers' price.

Compared with a week ago, wheat values today show 1 1/2c to 2 1/4c a bushel advance, whereas corn is 1 1/2c to 2 1/2c lower, oats 1 1/2c to 1 1/4c off, and provisions 2c to 5 1/2c down.

Part of the huge shortage in world wheat production this season is offset by an abnormal carry-over of wheat from last season. On the other hand, this carry-over is largely in North America, and the aggregate to be disposed of, altogether at present, is somewhat less than was the case a year ago. Meanwhile Argentina and Australia are the two countries which still have to harvest their crops.

All reports now point to a shorter wheat crop in Argentina than was estimated a while ago. Using the most conservative figures as to abandoned acreage in that country, yield of not more than 200,000,000 bu. is regarded as probable, compared with 307,000,000 bu. harvested last year, and the wheat will move later than last year, as the heaviest loss in acreage is in northern section, where harvesting starts first. Australia continues to report 60,000,000 bu. less wheat produced than last year.

Corn prices owe their decline to surprise over the government crop reports showing a probable yield of 2,528,000,000 bu. against 2,456,000,000 bu. forecast a month ago. Oats have been affected by larger receipts and by the action of corn. Packers' hedging sales are more or less responsible for price turnouts in the provision market.

U. S. MERCHANT MARINE ADDING MANY VESSELS

Shipbuilders Take Advantage of Loans Under Jones Act

BY JOSEPH H. BAIRD
United Press Staff Correspondent
Washington, Oct. 12.—(UP)—Loans granted from the $250,000,000 construction fund authorized by the Jones-White shipping act of 1928 will add 16 vessels to the American Merchant marine, records of the U. S. Shipping Board revealed today.

In addition to these vessels, many of them large ocean liners, whose total cost will be more than $52,000,000, three large American lines have plans for eight more ships. The Shipping Board expects to be asked to finance in part their construction.

The board's latest aid to the American marine was given recently when it approved loans of $10,575,000 to the Dollar Steamship Company of Seattle and $6,403,687 to the Motor Tankship Corporation. The loans will finance three-fourths of the vessel's cost.

Two fast 20-knot combination passenger cargo steamers will be constructed for the Dollar interests by the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company, Newport News, Va. One will be completed in October, 1931, and the second by February, 1932. They will be used by the Dollar around the world service.

Loans Total $39,000,000
Five motor tankers of 13,450 dead-weight tons will be constructed by the Motor Tankship Corporation.

Board officials expressed satisfaction today at the use of the fund, being made by American shipping lines. They pointed out today that the total of these loans is $39,000,687, representing three-fourths of the cost of 16 vessels, most of them large modern liners.

Records of the board show the following loans have been made from the construction fund: Dollar Steamship Lines, $10,575,000 for two vessels; Motor Tankship Corporation, $6,403,687 for five; Export Steamship Corporation, $6,625,000 for four; Grace Steamship Lines, $2,500,000 for one; America South Africa Line, $1,350,000 for one; Ward Line, $6,250,000 for two; Panama Pacific Lines, $5,250,000 for one.

Three Large Projects
At least three large projects for building new merchant and passenger tonnage have come to the attention of the board. The Matson Steamship Lines now have pending an application for funds to construct three fast, modern liners. No definite amount has been requested yet. Five large vessels in addition to those for which funds were loaned yesterday are contemplated by the Dollar Lines. It is understood the U. S. Lines have contracted to build two ocean giants to cost $25,000,000 each for their trans-Atlantic service and have indicated they may construct four smaller ships.

A steady rise in the American Merchant Marine since it touched bottom in 1910 has been noted by the Shipping Board. In that year only 6.7 per cent of American goods were carried in American-owned ships; in 1920, under the impetus of war-time construction, the percentage rose to 42.7, then began to sink again. At present the board estimates 30 per cent of American imports and exports are carried in ships owned by citizens of this country.

Shipping Board officials expressed confidence that continued construction, made possible by government loans, will raise the American merchant marine to a standard comparable with the days of clipper ships when American vessels carried 66 per cent of this country's trade.

EX-CONGRESSMAN APOLOGIZES FOR FALSE CHARGES

And College Professor Withdraws Suit For 100,000 Damages

Chicago, Oct. 12.—(UP)—The last echoes of Mayor William Hale Thompson's court battle "to ruin King George of England and British propaganda out of Chicago" rumbled out over Lake Michigan today and died away.

John J. Gorman, former Congressman who broke many a lance titting against King George a year and a half ago, has apologized to Dr. David Savilla Muzey, Columbia University professor, for calling the Doctor's American History "a British propaganda book, calculated to warp the minds of Chicago youth in favor of British domination of the United States."

After the apology Dr. Muzey withdrew his $100,000 libel suit against Gorman and the ex-Congressman went into retirement.

The letter of apology was a complete retraction of the charges which resulted in the ouster of William McAndrew, superintendent of Chicago Schools in a trial that, like the first shots of the revolution, was heard around the world.

Soon after Thompson had been elected Mayor, he opened fire on King George, Gorman bearing the brunt of the fighting. The Mayor, through his aide, contended the attack on McAndrew as being responsible for the history textbooks which the Mayor charged were "instruments of King George for regaining possession of the United States."

Gorman, in a letter, brought the charges. Last night he admitted he had not read Muzey's book when he wrote the letter but took the action on advice of a friend "in whom he had at that time a great deal of confidence." Since, Gorman wrote to Dr. Muzey, he has read the book and found that the charges were unfounded.

Members of Tariff Board Will Testify
Washington, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Chairman Marvin and Commissioner Edgar B. Brossard of the Tariff Commission were included today among witnesses summoned by the Senate lobby investigating committee for the opening hearing on Tuesday.

Chairman Caraway of the committee announced that H. A. Austin representative of the United States Beet Sugar Company, and H. C. Lakin, president of the Cuba Company of New York City, also had been called in connection with the inquiry into the tariff situation.

It has been decided to inquire first into charges of attempts to influence experts of the tariff commission in determining valuation. Previously William Burgess of Morristown, Penna., a former Republican member of the Tariff Commission and Frederick L. Koch, an expert on the Commission, had been ordered to appear Tuesday.

Calling of the sugar representatives today indicated early attention also will be given to the contests over the proposed increase in the sugar duties, provided by the pending tariff measure.

city was filled with people and by night the streets will be again jammed. The police must receive much credit for the manner in which they handled the traffic problem. The merchants are highly pleased with the business during the festival.

Charles Miller, chairman of the entertainment committee, said this morning that he deeply appreciated the good work of Floyd Chapman, Winston Edwards, John Valle, Frank Sprout, and Robert Johnson, members of his committee. These men were on the job every minute and much of the success of the entertainment features is due to the work of these men.

Winston Edwards, chairman of the school children parade appreciates the splendid work and co-operation of the teachers—all did their best to make the parade such a great success. "Next year," declared Mr. Edwards, "we will have a larger and better parade."

Yes, folks, we did have a wonderful festival, and we all thank the folks in the country and our people in the city for turning out in such large numbers and the boosting you have done for Dixon.

Dixon will have another festival next year—a festival much bigger than this one which has been brought to a close. We do hope, however, that next year the weather man will give Dixon three days of good weather—with plenty of the good old sunshine.

The final festival story will be published on Monday by the Telegraph. Dixon's paper which did everything possible to aid in making our festival such a great success.

William Ware, chairman of the corn show committee, declared this morning that the show was a great success and that next year his committee will have to have more money, in order to take care of the exhibits.

FULFILLMENT
The reapers are working in the fields of ripened grain. And fruits hang heavy on the trees. The forests are beckoning with chaotic-colored fingers. Entreatings . . .

Slender poplars
Like narrow flames of gold
Leap to extinction
In heaven's sea of blue,
Whisper waves
Are white-capped by the foam-like clouds.
Now and then
An amber or scarlet ship,
Slipping its moorings,
Sails by on the autumn breeze,
While maple keys drop,
Flickering
The birds
In myriad numbers
Are bidding farewell.
They seem in haste to leave
A drowsing world.
Bare branches are beginning to sway
Softly.
In sleep,
While they win back to the hearts of nature.
There to weave enchantment
For another year.

—Audrey Wurdemann, in "The House of Silk."

Missionary Meeting With Mrs. Overstreet

(Contributed)

The first meeting in the new Conference year of the W. F. M. S. of the Methodist church was held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred Overstreet.

Our round the world sunrise hymn "Jesus the Light of the World" was sung for the last time by us before the sixtieth anniversary which will be held in Columbus, Oct. 24, 1930.

This year our new hymn will be "The Church's One Foundation." Our new text for the year is "We are laborers together with God" and our abbreviated slogan, "Forward together to the unfinished task."

We were led in prayer by Mrs. Baum. The president appointed Mrs. A. H. Ahrens to look after the music and Mrs. Withers as Secretary of Christian Stewardship. She also read the names of the unit leaders for this year.

Our individual slogan for this year is "One new member before November. One new subscription for the 'Friend before the year's end.'"

Mrs. Dodge had charge of the Devotionals. The subject was the "Olive Branch." She read several Bible verses speaking of the olive branch, also the hymn written by J. G. Whitler, "We May Not Climb the Heavenly Steeps."

Mrs. Beach by the use of the white elephant drill secured two new subscriptions for the Missionary Friend. The first chapter of the study book, "From Jerusalem to Jerusalem" aimed to show that Christianity is a Missionary Religion from the very first and includes all mankind. This was given by Miss Seals after which the delegates from the branch meeting at Springfield gave their reports.

Miss Morgan said this was the third time the branch meeting had been held in Springfield and the speaker giving the opening address read the address of welcome which had been read by her mother when the meeting was held there 37 years ago. It was just as appropriate for this meeting.

Mrs. Belle Morris described the communion service in which 750 partook. The communion cups were sent from China as gifts to be used at the meeting in Columbus. They bore the Chinese inscription "East and West in Equality of Soul." Mrs. Dawson spoke of the addresses of Bishop Oldham and Mrs. Nicholson. Because of the lateness of the hour the report of Mrs. Beach was postponed until the next meeting.

Flowers with greetings and best wishes were sent to Mrs. Thomson whose birthday was Wednesday but who was unable to be at the meeting.

Luncheon Honored Mrs. Alice Beebe

Mrs. Alice Beebe, who is leaving Dixon next week to sail for South America to visit her daughter this winter, was the guest of honor at a charming luncheon Tuesday, given by Mrs. S. W. Lehman, at her home in Bluff Park.

Flowers, both autumn garden blossoms and cut flowers, graced the home in lovely colorings, also autumn foliage. The luncheon table was beautifully decorated, and appointed.

A number of interesting guessing contests were enjoyed during the afternoon. Mrs. Joseph Petersberger received the favor for first prize; and Mrs. Beebe was presented a dainty guest favor. All regret Mrs. Beebe's departure and wish her a safe and pleasant journey, and hope that she will soon return.

LIONS IN LABORATORIES.

Nothing can be much more interesting, to an American, than the history of this country during the last three-quarters of a century.

During that period the country emerged from its infancy and reached a lusty, energetic manhood. The change that came upon it was profound; even yet we do not see clearly just what has happened to us or just where we are going. But the process of change has at least gone far enough so that we can pause and look back to study ourselves objectively.

A good many novelists have tried to interpret this development for us. One of the latest to do so is Thames Williamson, whose "Stride of Man" puts under a microscope the whole astonishing swing from a frontier civilization to an era of factories, mass production and big cities.

The hero of this book, born in an Oregon log cabin, grows up with the new industrialism and becomes a kind of Henry Ford—a super-energetic maker of automobiles. He lives and breathes only to make autos; and, in his mind, his workers are only rather eccentric machines, indispensable but fit only for the performance of such tasks as cannot yet be entrusted to automatic whirllights.

This man may fairly be taken as a type. He is modern America personified. He can recall the days of oxcarts and the pony express, but he remembers them only with impatience. He himself has killed them forever. He exists without a background. Nothing matters, to him, but the production of solid, material things. When someone reproaches him because the industrial age has made no contributions to the arts, he is pained; has he not given his city money for an art museum? To the end of his life he remains ignorant that a man or a nation can have any higher aim than the erection of factories.

Yet, accepting this man as the incarnation of the American spirit, it is impossible to feel that he is wholly wrong.

The pioneers struggled west with very definite, material objectives. They wanted to find a place where life could be easier, where poverty could be eliminated, where every man could have enough and to spare. They were, very definitely, out for the full dinner pail and all its appurtenances.

Industrial America is the logical result. As the pioneers, without exactly realizing that they were doing it, performed a work of incalculable service, it may be that their children, the industrialists, are doing likewise. Herbert Hoover has said that the complete abolition of poverty is now a possibility for us. And that work will be done, not by the poets and seers and artists, but by the energetic men who are obsessed with the job of producing an ever-increasing stream of material things.

We are not quite finished with our pioneering. America seems to be a sort of laboratory, in which the great possibilities of the age of industrialism can be tested for the benefit of the rest of the world. The day of the pioneers had its hard, cruel, unpleasant aspects, and so has our own. But much can be forgiven an era of preparation.

MONEY SPENT FOR HEALTH.

No money that American cities spend gives much better results than the money spent on health work.

A middle western city recently elected a physician to its school board. This physician promptly got busy and instituted a strict regime of medical inspection for all public school pupils. It didn't cost a great deal, and it enabled practically every child in the city to get a regular inspection by a qualified doctor.

The results were astounding. Cases of infections and contagious diseases fell off remarkably. Countless minor physical defects were remedied. The average state of child health was greatly improved. Physicians in private practice could notice the good results; one actually protested, jokingly, that the new policy was going to drive some doctors out of business.

Money that is spent on health education and health protection is money very well spent. It is about the finest investment a city can make.

Maybe the meek will inherit the earth, but there still are quite a few people who are not so meek and they seem fairly healthy, too.

Topeka has been investigating the liquor-in-the-home situation after a newspaper columnist wrote of having drinks at several houses. Maybe officials discovered the walls were plastered.

A former treasury official says the new currency is dangerous. Several people we know are craving adventure.

A British doctor says the bathroom is the most restful room in the house. This was discovered years ago by plumbers.

THE TINYMITE
STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY JOCK

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Weeones who had just been saved ran up to all the rest and raved about his good friend, Scouty, who had saved him from the stream. We Scouty smiled, real modestly, and finally said, "I cannot see the reason for this crazy fuss. I merely heard him scream."

The little Weeone then broke in and shouted, "Just the same you win my heartfelt thanks. When I cried out you came right to my side. Then very soon you grabbed me 'round the waist and I was safe and sound. That was a very brave act that but few folks would have tried."

"He's right," yelled Copy. "Scouty's brave and always there is time to save a person who's in trouble. Let's just give him three long cheers." To Scouty this was quite a treat. The whole bunch jumped up to their feet and shortly yelled so very loud it almost hurt their ears.

Then Clowny said, "Say, I'm not rude, but I suggest we have some food. Now how about it, Weeones? Have you anything on hand? Just bread and jelly would taste right. I have a mighty appetite. If you will only serve us we will eat to beat the band."

The Weeones stood real still awhile. Then one of them broke in a smile. "We haven't any bread," said he. "But I have quite a hunch. We'll run back in the woods and get the best food you have eaten yet. You Tynimies wait here and we will bring you all some lunch."

And so the Weeones ran from sight. The Tynimies thought this was all right. All of a sudden they returned. Their trip was made real quick. "Oh, look," cried Carpy. "Now we'll eat. What they have caught looks like a treat." The little Weeones came forth with a rabbit on a stick.

(What happened to the rabbit? We'll find out in the next story.)

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY
COLUMBUS DAY

Today is Columbus Day. Four hundred and thirty-seven years ago, in the early morning hours of Oct. 12, 1492, Christopher Columbus and his companions discovered land.

They disembarked at daybreak on an island called by the natives Guanahani. Columbus took possession of the island and named it San Salvador.

Further explorations led Columbus to believe that Cuba was a projection of Asia. In the meantime, Alonso Martin Pinzon, one of Columbus' companions, discovered Haiti, which Columbus named Espanola.

On Dec. 26 they built a fort and left 37 men, with ample provisions, as a garrison. Two days later one of the ships, the Santa Maria, was wrecked and all on board were transferred to the Nina.

Columbus began the return voyage Jan. 4, 1493. In the Azores, which they reached Feb. 15, Columbus wrote his first account of the explorations. He wrote the second account March 4, when he reached Lisbon.

At the end of the voyage, Columbus immediately began making plans for a second expedition, on which he set sail Sept. 25, 1493.

here until death, being a resident of this place forty-six years.

"Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me;
And may there be no moaning of the bar
When I put out to sea."

"But such a tide as moving seems asleep,
Too full for sound or foam,
When that which drew from out the boundless deep Turns home again."

"Twilight and evening bell
And after that the dark,
And may there be no sadness of farewell
When I embark."

"For though from out our bourne of time and place
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face to face
When I have crossed the bar."

Woman's Club Notes.

The Woman's club met with Mrs. Carrie B. Crawford Monday afternoon for the initial meeting of the season. A large number was present and a most enjoyable program was rendered, with free discussion which is really the life of such an occasion. The roll call "Way Back When" brought out many reminiscences of earlier days. There isn't room for all of them but we quote a few.

"Do you remember when on 'big Sunday' of camp meeting there would be 6,000 or 7,000 in town, with the streets lined with buggies? When, in the old school house the rooms were heated, each with a big stove in the center of the room? Each stove was accompanied by a long iron poker and the teachers had to stoke their own fires? "

When a skating rink stood where the Presbyterian church is now, and the home band—a real brass band—used to practice there?

When Isaac Downing peddled milk from house to house with a horse and wagon? He had a couple of big cans of milk and a long-handled dipper, and when you heard his bell at the door you went out and got the quantity you wished.

When there were four saloons on main street, and a drunken man was a very common sight?

When a tile factory and old Dutch windmill were located close to where Freemont Lahman's home stands?

When Frank Swingle carried a small ladder and went from street to street cleaning and lighting the kerosene street lamps? During the day he kept the board side walks of the town in repair.

Mrs. Mary Maiden gave several interesting facts of her childhood when the family lived in a cabin in the timber west of town, close to the creek. When the railroad was built, her father, Charles Bill, Sr., cut away the trees so they could see the trains passing.

The program of the day was arranged by the heads of the department as follows:

Music—Piano duets by Mrs. W. L. Moore and Mrs. F. J. Blocher, "Polish Dance" and "Minute Waltz"; American Homes—Explanation of department work and food exchange to be put on at the February meeting. Miss Lahman, for Miss Maude Conlon, who was unable to be present; Community Service—Mrs. W. L. Reigle read an article entitled "Down With Dust", which brought out a spirited discussion. Every woman present testified to the disagreeable prevalence of the dust nuisance on our streets and in the homes during the last few summers and particularly the one just past.

The article read told of the value of calcium chloride, in a commercial form which is now on the market and is being used on streets, tennis courts, etc., where it is desirable to overcome the dust. It is hoped that by another summer something may be done along this line on the streets of our town and a study and investigation is to be made, by the Community Service Department as to the possible solution. Civic—Mrs. Elizabeth Durkes, not being present Miss Dorothy Durkes furnished a paper entitled, "What's in a Name?" This explained the history, origin and significance of many names of Illinois counties, rivers and cities and was very interesting as well as informing; Conservation and Gardens—Mrs. Ada Peterson read a short article, appropriate to the season, entitled "The Mystery in an Autumn Leaf".

Mrs. Charles Sunday told of the work of her department and of the conservation bond issue which is to be voted on in November, 1930. Also of the general garden and planting development that has taken place the last few years in response to the slogan of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, "The U. S. a garden nation by 1930." Another question to be voted on in 1930—the eligibility of women to jury service in Illinois—was also discussed. These two questions—the Conservation Bond Issue and Women on Juries Amendment—will be much before the people during the coming year and every voter needs to study all the available facts so that an intelligent vote may be cast when the time comes. The next meeting will be held November 4, at the home of Mrs. W. L. Reigle.

Illinois Briefs

BY UNITED PRESS
CHICAGO—The final mid-west dog show of the season will be held here October 26 and 27. The show is expected to attract 2,000 entries from over the United States. Several National and international cham-pions will be exhibited.

LEBANON—At the request of Coach Glen Filley, Director of Athletics at McKendree college here, baseball has been eliminated from the college's sports calendar. Filley in explaining his action, told the board of directors of the college that the sport did not pay and that he had returned uniforms used last season to all men who represented the college on the diamond.

DECATUR—Ghosts of dogs may walk out if they howl. Residents of this city are exposed to some deaf-ening noises as some 2,500 canines, executed by authorities here, lie buried in the city's dog cemetery. Decatur health authorities have waged war on all stray dogs in this city for the past year with the result that the "dog catcher" has been ex-ceddingly busy in administering the last rites to the homeless dogs.

CHICAGO—Mrs. Adeline Felton, 66, has ordered her first set of false teeth.
Dr. William V. Sher, dentist, said it was his first experience in fitting a set for a person of Mrs. Felton's age.

Mrs. Felton, despite her advanced age, does her own house work and shopping.

CHICAGO—You probably have heard of several beautiful young women wearing the title of "Miss Chicago"—well, the Windy City also boasts a Mr. Chicago.

It came about in this manner. Eleven years ago an Austrian named Kocis decided to come to America, and friends told him that he could not take out naturalization papers unless he changed his name.

Arriving in Chicago he changed his name to Chicago.
"Chicago it will be until I die," Mr. Chicago declared.
Mr. Chicago is a Chicago baker and thinks Chicago is the greatest place in the world.

SPRINGFIELD—A desire to estab-lish an endurance record for women that will remain unbroken for some time is the latest ambition of Eliza-beth Skadden, 18, youthful "air-minded" maiden student of this city.

Miss Skadden who has spent con-siderable study along the various lines of aviation has five and one-half hours flying time to her credit and after completing a total of ten hours she expects to do solo flying. When her ten hours of solo flying has been completed she will be eligible to receive pilot's license.

After obtaining her pilot's license, Miss Skadden plans experiment with various types of airplanes before she attempts to break the present en-durance record for women which is twenty-six hours and held by Eli-nor Smith, New York City.

This youthful aviatrix, who is small in stature, weighs only 95 pounds and finds herself almost "lost" in the larger planes, has desired to fly a plane since she first heard the roar of an air motor.
Among the many things connected with an aviation course, which she has mastered, is repair work of gas-oline motors. She believes that every flyer should know their motors as well as any other device connected with their plane.

AMIEE ACCUSED AGAIN
Los Angeles, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Four pastors of Angelus Temple, evangeli-stic enterprise of Amiee Semple McPherson, appeared before Deputy District Attorney Daniel Beecher to-day and alleged that the evangelist had been guilty of misappropriations of funds.

Beecher said evidence given him by the four men was of such impor-tant an immediate investigation of financial affairs of the temple would be undertaken.

The group was headed by the Rev. John Goben, whom Mrs. McPherson summarily discharged yesterday fol-lowing a disagreement over Temple policies.

Beecher said Toben possessed pho-tostatic copies of books and records of the temple which were alleged to show transfers of funds collected for the association to Mrs. McPherson's personal use.

The Avenging Parrot

MURDER had been committed. Behind the slayer lay a tangled trail of evidence that only confused the investigators and caused suspicion to rest at various times on all the boarders in the Rhodes House.

But there had been a witness to the crime—a feathered nemesis whose seemingly inconsequential utterances set a sharp-thinking young detective on the right path and ran a devilishly clever criminal to earth.

He was indeed an avenging parrot, this pet of the lonely woman who was murdered in the Rhodes House, and from him the most fascinating mystery serial of the year takes its title.

Read "The Avenging Parrot." Meet Bonnie Dundee, a detective character new to fiction and destined to be the central figure in more mystery stories by the same author—the talented and popular Anne Austin.

What Averages Of Big Leagues Show at Week End

NATIONAL LEAGUE

New York, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Frank O'Doul of Philadelphia won the National League batting crown by a margin of nine points over his nearest regular rival, Babe Herman of Brooklyn, according to the final averages released today. The Phillie outfielder established a new league record for hits in establishing his winning mark of 400. In his 636 times at bat he cracked out 254 safe blows, four more than the former record, set by Rogers Hornsby in 1922. O'Doul also led in the number of singles with 183.

Hornsby also set a new record by scoring 155 runs as well as leading the league in total bases with 408. The former run mark was 144, set by Hazen Cuyler in 1925. Hornsby finished third in the batting race with an average of .380.

A third modern National League record went to Johnny Frederick of Brooklyn, who collected 53 doubles, three more than Paul Waner made in 1928. The all-time record still belongs to Ed Delahanty of Philadelphia who made 56 in 1899.

Lloyd Waner of Pittsburgh captured the crown for triples, getting 20 three baggers but left a gap in the record by breaking performances. Chuck Klein, the Phillies slugger, picked up the record breaking system again by getting 43 home runs. He beat Hornsby's old record, set in 1922 by one homer.

Another of the Rajah's marks set in his great 1922 season went down when Hack Wilson of Chicago compiled a record of 153 runs batted in. Hornsby drove home 152.

The final run producing crown went to Hazen Cuyler of Chicago who stole 43 bases.

Behind the three batting leaders, O'Doul, Herman and Hornsby came Terry, New York .372; Stephenson, Chicago, .362; Cuyler, Chicago, .358; Klein, Philadelphia, .356; Traynor, Pittsburgh, .356; L. Waner, Pittsburgh, .353; and Hendrick, Brooklyn, .352.

The Phillies took the team batting championship with a mark of .309 while Pittsburgh tied with the champion Cubs for second place with a .303 mark. The rest all were under .300. The Cubs and the New York Giants tied for club field honors with averages of .975. Cincinnati had a mark of .974.

Charley Root of Chicago led the pitchers with 19 victories and six defeats for a mark of .760 although Carl Mays of New York held a nominal lead, winning seven games and losing two to gain an average of .778. Guy Bush of Chicago was second to his teammates, his mark of .720 came from 18 victories and 7 defeats. Burleigh Grimes of Pittsburgh won 17 games and lost 7 to take third place with a .708 average.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Chicago, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Lew Fonseca, Cleveland's veteran first baseman, won the American League batting championship for 1929 with a .369 average, the lowest to win the crown since Ty Cobb turned the trick with a .368 mark way back in 1914, final unofficial averages revealed today.

Al Simmons of the Athletics finished second with .364 while Heinie Manush of the St. Louis Browns, runner-up last year, came in third with a .355 average, one point higher than Jimmy Foxx, another member of Connie Mack's championship team.

Tony Lazzeri of the Yankees landed fifth, one point behind Foxx. Other leaders at the finish were Fothergill, Detroit, .350; Ruth, New York, .345; Combs, New York, .344; Heilmann, Detroit, .343; and Alexander, Detroit, .341.

It was the first odd year since 1919 that Heilmann failed to win the title. He won it in 1921, 1923, 1925 and 1927.

Robert Mose Grove of the Athletics was credited with the pitching championship of the league circuit. "Lefty" won 20 games and lost six, pitching 275 innings and permitting .78 hits. He is the 1929 strikeout king of the league too with 167 whiffing victims. Tom Zachary of the Yankees had a perfect percentage—12 games won and none lost—but the championship was given to Grove because of his greater number of games.

George Earnshaw of Philadelphia was second with 24 victories and 8 defeats with Ferrell of Cleveland third with 21 victories and 10 losses.

Detroit won the team batting championship with a .298 mark; the team fielding crown went to the Athletics with a .975 average, one point higher than the St. Louis Browns. Cleveland turned in 182 double plays to top the circuit in that department.

In other individual batting departments, Simmons led in runs batted in with 153 and his hits resulted in the most total bases—371. Babe Ruth led again in homers, getting 46; Alexander got the most hits—214, while Gehring of Detroit scored the most runs, 130; rapped out the most triples—19, and led in stolen bases with 7. R. Johnson of Detroit batted 48 no batters to lead in that department.

LIONS AREN'T SO MUCH

Juarez, Mexico.—Well, the lion is no longer the king of beasts. A bull and a lion were put into an arena recently to fight for the pleasure of the people. Much betting was one on the lion, but that beast's backers were given a surprise when he built put the lion to flight.

Young Jimmy Foxx the "Babe Ruth" of the 1929 Series

Jimmy Foxx, youthful first baseman of the Athletics, is causing baseball fans to forget that Babe Ruth is not in the world series this year. Foxx clouted his second home run of the series in the third inning of the second game, scoring Cochrane and Simmons ahead of him. His homer seemed to be the punch that broke down the Cubs' defense, for after that the Athletics proceeded to pile up nine runs. This NEA picture shows Foxx crossing the plate with Simmons, Cochrane and Bing Miller waiting to congratulate him.

BOXING SHOW BY LEGION PROVED GREAT SUCCESS

Big Crowd Saw Bouts at Rosbrook Hall Last Evening

Dixon boxing fans witnessed another fine card last evening at Rosbrook hall provided by the Dixon Post of the American Legion. It was a well balanced program with plenty of activity and the participants showed a willingness to mix things from the start.

In the opening bout of the evening, Joe Sharkey who substituted for Chee Chee Salome of LaSalle, was awarded the judges decision over Fred Waring of Mt. Morris at 126 pounds.

Vern Donoho of Dixon was too powerful a puncher for Johnny Keven of Elgin at 140 pounds, but it required four rounds to decide that the local boxer was entitled to the decision.

Roy Cortright, another local produce in the 130 pound class won a technical knockout over Joe Jordan of Rockford in the second round of their section of the entertainment.

Hank Nehring outboxed Bill Peterson, both local products, in the 152 pound class which went into four rounds.

In the double wind-up feature, Joe Doll of Savanna failed to withstand the punches of Young Diving of LaSalle. Doll has had a siege of car-buncles and in the opening round his opponent whipped over a hard blow to one of the tenderest spots on Joe's head and the bout was closed. The pair weighed in at 147 pounds.

Tony Mandell of Rockford, possessor of the Illinois championship for 142 pounds, reclaimed his title in the main bout of the evening. Jim Hagner of Elgin gave a good account of himself in his attempt to wrest the laurels worn by the Rockford champion and it required four rounds for the judges to decide who had the better of the argument.

Tom Burke of this city refereed the first four bouts of the evening. In the double windup, Harry Stephan, also a Dixonite, stepped into the roped arena and bossed the job in the last two bouts.

Many baseball observers do not take very seriously the suggestion that Babe Ruth may be selected to succeed the late Miller Huggins as manager of the Yankees, yet in many ways it would be the most appropriate gesture that Colonel Ruppert could make.

Ruth's dynamic personality, more than even the tactical genius and generalship of Huggins, made the Yankees the great as well as colorful team that they have been. It has been axiomatic that "as Ruth goes, so go the Yankees." In action, it often seemed that Ruth was the real leader. In a pinch the big outfielder's magnetic spirit did more than anything else to spur the team on.

The Babe was always in the midst of everything, whether it was a rally, an argument or a fight. The confidence of the individual Yankees in the personal ability of Ruth under any circumstances was little short of astonishing. The players surpassed the fans in their expectation of the slugger's accomplishments.

For these reasons Ruth might make an ideal manager at an age when he has "mellowed," with the fruits of a marvelous career and a remarkable personality to draw upon. Yet such is his individuality, the freedom which he has always enjoyed to concentrate on his own play, that the strain and responsibilities of actual leadership, of planning and directing strategy, of making decisions and enforcing them—all these things might cramp the big fellow's style. Having run the gamut himself, Ruth could hardly be imposed upon. He would dominate by voice, gesture and size. But there would still be the element of the Babe's stability to consider, especially under a burden of responsibility.

Ruth, however, has always specialized in the unexpected. It would be a crowning touch for the giant who "built the Yankee Stadium" and revolutionized long-distance hitting to round out his career as a successful manager.

Howard Jones, Southern California coach, has just written a book on "Football for the Fan," aimed at helping the spectator to understand the intricacies of what transpires on the field. On a rainy November day it would be useful to toss in a good pair of binoculars and first-class imagination along with each copy.

Any opponent of Southern California may be apprehensive it is mixed up in a track meet any Saturday this season. The Trojans, with the help of Jesse Hill, the broad jumper, and Mortensen, the track captain and javelin tosser, in the backfield, rolled up a track meet tally of 76 points in its opening game against U. C. L. A.

Kansas City Milk Producers Strike

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 12.—(AP)—With a day of rest behind them, Kansas City, champions of the American Association, and Rochester, International League title-holder, resume battle today for the "AA" championship of the world.

Holding an edge of four games to three, Manager Zwilling of Kansas City planned to send his ace right-hander Tom Sheehan, former major league, to the mound in an effort to clinch the nine-game series. Billy Southworth, Rochester pilot, is counting on Tex Carleton, another crack right hander, to tie the series at four victories all, thus necessitating the playing of the ninth game at Rochester Sunday.

Daily Health Talk

BY HOWARD B. SPRAGUE, M. D., Boston, Massachusetts.

(This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial Institute, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Institute are at 1331 G Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

Very few of us approach the ordeal of a surgical operation without a certain amount of normal fear. We know that, in spite of the best methods of the surgeon and even at times the quite minor nature of the procedure, a certain number of people will die during the following operation. So well does the layman know this that it has become a standing gibe at the profession to say that the operation was successful but the patient died.

If this apprehension is admitted by the great majority of people who are physically sound except for the local disease needing surgical care, how much more is this true of the not uncommon sufferer from heart disease who is about to undergo an operation.

Doctors not infrequently have patients who need surgery but who are loath to have the operation performed because they have been warned that their hearts were weak and could not stand the shock. The first thing which such people need is to find out what really is the condition of their hearts. Few people realize that there are a multitude of different heart disturbances, a very few of which are enough to warrant a fear of sudden death, several of which may, after many years, lead to a slowing down of the person's physical activity, but many of which are harmless irregularities of the heart's action causing palpitation or nervous dizziness or faintness which in no way should limit the patient's life or happiness, or which would not increase at all the dangers of surgery. Again, a considerable number of people have been told, perhaps years before through some inaccurate observation, that heart disease was present when nothing can be found but marked nervous instability.

It can be said with assurance from recent figures, that the risk of dying on the operating table even when true disease is present is very slight. In fact, in the past ten years at the Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston, sudden, unexpected death during operation has been almost four times as common in patients without heart disease as in those with it.

The greatest danger comes from the longer strain of convalescence with the possibility of complications like pneumonia.

Young people with heart disease stand operations well. In our study only about one in fifty succumbed from heart failure and that one was suffering from a fatal heart infection at the time of operation.

People over fifty with organic heart trouble take more risk but the danger is really rather from age and general weakness than from heart incompetence. Cerebral hemorrhage or "Stroke" due to operations is very rare. The dangers of excess fat are greater than the dangers of high blood pressure to surgical patients. Anyone whose heart is strong enough to allow him to get about and perform the usual easier tasks of life without distress, no matter what may be discovered on examination of the heart, can almost always contemplate necessary surgery without added fear of his heart's ability to stand the strain.

Operations very greatly in their gravity but this factor is the same for both those with and without heart disease. However, more care before, during, and after operation often must be bestowed on the sufferer from heart disease. Finally it must be remembered that the skill and experience of the surgeon and the anesthetist may make the difference between life and death to one with grave heart disorder. If proper preparation for operation is observed and extra care in its execution and during the postoperative period is carried out it is rarely necessary to deny to patients with heart disease the benefits of conservative surgery.

Kansas City Needs But One Game Now

Kansas City, Oct. 12.—(AP)—First appearance of gunplay and the dumping of almost 2,000 gallons of milk from city bound trucks gave a more serious aspect today to the strike of Kansas City milk producers. Milk was dumped from two trucks earlier in the week but men who stopped the trucks used no violence and appeared bent only on stopping transportation of milk to the city in the most peaceful manner possible. Yesterday, however, one of four truck drivers whose loads were poured in the road was threatened with a pistol thrust against his face, while in other instances clubs and stones made their appearance.

One driver, Ray Young, was twice a victim of the raiders who patrolled highways entering the city. A telephone pole placed across the road forced him to stop and eight men dumped 150 gallons of milk. A few hours later, at a distant point four men dumped 20 gallons he had collected from farm stations.

Another driver for the same dairy the Summe Dairy Company, was forced to dismount from his truck with the muzzle of a gun thrust in his face. Fifteen men poured 350 gallons of milk into roadside ditches. The driver, A. L. Copeland, said he was cursed and threatened with personal violence if he continued to collect milk during the strike.

97th Bomb of Year Rocked South Side

Chicago, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The 97th bomb of the year shook the south shore residential district last night and blew some credence into the recent evolved police theory that racketeers have resorted to "pine-apples" in reprisals for stock market losses.

The bomb was placed beside a private garage at the rear of an apartment house, among whose tenants is Alfred S. Trude, Jr., member of the Board of Trade and nephew of Judge Daniel P. Trude. Two weeks ago a powerful bomb was exploded at the front door to the apartment of C. H. McCarty, another broker. McCarty lives just a few blocks from Trude, as does also State's Attorney John A. Swanson.

The explosion caused little damage.

A short time after the south shore bombing, Evanston's fourth bomb in the last two months exploded in the basement of an unfinished apartment building. Police attributed it to a crank. Prior to the first of the recent four bombings, the north shore suburb had not experienced a bombing for more than a decade.

At about the time that the bombs exploded, a jury acquitted four defendants of charges of arson in connection with the bombing of a butcher shop several months ago. Those freed were Mrs. Evelyn Sugar, Mrs. Bertha Amster and Michael and Nicholas Caselli.

REEVES—Born to Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Reeves of Mt. Carroll, at the Dixon Hospital, a son this morning. Carroll friends are happy over the successful accouchement.

TOO BAD

Windsor, Ont.—A 68-year-old man, C. T. Pressland, living in Sherbrooke, Quebec, pedaled a bicycle 400 miles to Toronto and then took a train to Windsor to see his son in Detroit. He was refused entry by immigration officials after he got to the border. "It is a little disheartening to make such a long journey only to meet with disappointment at the border," was his only comment.

ARISTOCRACY OF FARM AND STABLE IN ST. LOUIS SHOW

Illinoisans are Interested In Two Weeks Exposition There

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 12.—(UP)—The aristocracy of farm and stable occupied the center of interest here today as the National Dairy Show, the St. Louis National Horse Show, the St. Louis Fair, and the Poultry and Pet Stock show opened a joint two weeks exposition in the new Arena Building.

The dairy show is the headliner. Fifteen hundred head of cattle have been entered in the largest exposition the National Dairy Association ever has attempted.

Outstanding among the events of the exposition are the final national stock judging contests and other competitions of the nation's farm boys and girls, belonging to the 4-H clubs and vocational agriculture classes.

The 2,000 boys and girls here for the contests are winners of state and regional contests. The 4-H Club members, who number about 500, are champions of the agricultural states, sent to the National Dairy Show by 31 state organizations to compete for national honors.

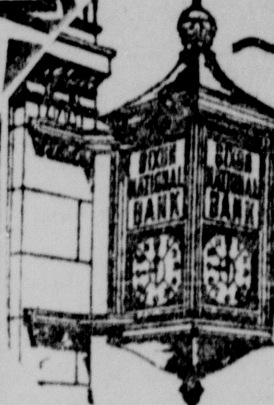

The St. Louis National Horse show is an annual event, drawing competition from all parts of the nation. Prizes of approximately $35,000 will be awarded.

The St. Louis Fair is the usual agricultural exposition of the eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois districts.

Among the notables who will attend the show are: Former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, a director of the National Dairy Association; Congresswoman Ruth Hanna McCormick of Illinois, who has entered stock from her farm in the show; William H. Williams, New York Railroad chief; and J. C. Penney, millionaire merchant, who has 37 Guernsey cattle entered.

The gates of the recently completed Arena Building opened at 8 A. M. today for a continuous round of exhibitions that will last two weeks. The giant building, the largest of its kind in the world, seats 21,000 persons.

Is your porch going to be a cold, bleak snow trap again this winter. It doesn't cost much to get it "glazed in" and think what a lot of fuel it will save. Ask us for an estimate, no harm done.

"Petting," says a university professor involves emotional excitement." N o w, listen, prof. Y o u wouldn't kid us about this, would you?

Well, it's come at last. We've been afraid of it right along. Last night we saw two flappers standing in front of a drug store.

The next war, they say, will be fought by wireless. We've heard something on our set the other night that made us think it had started.

GAP GROVE

Gap Grove — Mesdames Edna Schott and Alice Maxwell spent Monday getting members for the Home Bureau. Their efforts were rewarded by getting three new members, one more than their quota.

Ellis Williams is driving a new sedan.

Frank Scholl is painting both houses on his farm which greatly improves their appearance.

Mr. and Mrs. Verne Straw have had a new radio installed in their home, which gives them a great deal of enjoyment and information.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Snyder and daughter and son, Thelma and Orin, formerly residents of Palmyra, but now residing east of Rock Falls, spent Sunday visiting friends in Gap Grove.

Something like lumbago is afflicting the people in this vicinity.

Mrs. Allen Giffrow is living with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Eastinger until her husband, who is manager of one of the National Tea Company's stores in Rockford can secure a house.

Last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. John Brit and two daughters, Charlotte and Phyllis, accompanied by Mrs. Birt's mother, Mrs. Carrie Rushka and aunt, Mrs. Ella Horner, took a drive by way of Dixon, Oregon and Rockford to Janesville, Wisconsin. After spending some time here viewing some of the city's beautiful parks and buildings, and best of all the sunken garden, they proceeded westward to Monroe, Wisconsin, where they stopped at a camping ground long enough to eat their luncheon. From Monroe they returned home by the way of Preopert and Polo. They report a very pleasant drive of approximately two hundred miles. They are loud in their praises of the many herds of beautiful Holsteins they saw in Wisconsin also the exquisite scenery in the bluffs and valley. Just at this season of the year dame nature is putting on her most gorgeous attire. Jack Frost is causing the foliage of the forests to vie with the rainbow in pretty colors. At Janesville they saw the start of an airplane race but they dared not stay long enough to see the finish. They saw many fields of very good corn and many other interesting sights, especially the cheese factories in the city of Monroe. The day was delightful and the drive most enjoyable.

Grandpa Janssen is still confined to his room with his sciatic rheumatism. He is not improving so rapidly as was hoped a week ago.

The frosts of the past few mornings do not seem to have hurt vegetation much. The flowers and tomato vines show no serious effects.

The Brimblecom sale near Wauwung was well attended and everything sold well. Puffs Brothers served the lunch. Ira Rutt was auctioneer and Robert Warner, clerk.

The Prairieville P. T. A. held its regular monthly meeting last Thursday evening. The principal feature was a talk by Dr. L. S. Reaveley of Sterling on the contagious diseases to which school children are susceptible and their prevention. Nearly all diseases can be prevented with the proper care. No certain prevention has been found for mumps and whooping cough. Beware of the tetanus germ.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

HELEN PAGE feels indebted to and in love with her guardian, LEONARD BRENT. The latter changes his plans for her future after meeting a dying beggar, NELLIE. Soon after, Brent tells Helen that she is heiress of a millionaire, CYRIL K. CUNNINGHAM. He takes her to Cunningham and offers proofs which the lonely old man accepts, as he had been searching for the girl.

Among Helen's new friends are EVA ENNIS and her brother ROBERT, who falls in love with her. Brent becomes jealous of Bob and plots to win Helen quickly, especially since he has found another locket like the one he had taken from Nellie to prove Helen the heiress. Hearing that a sudden shock would likely kill the old man, Brent swiftly administers the shock, and the servants find Cunningham dead. Then, acting as sympathizer and appealing to her loyalty, Brent secures Helen's promise to marry him.

Later, Helen and Bob discover their true love for each other, but she tells him it is hopeless, for she is engaged. She seeks Brent to ask release and surprises him making love to another woman. This makes it easier for Helen, but Brent refuses, saying he has desired his life to her and that other women are mere distractions.

Meanwhile, a school friend of Helen's, SHALLIMAR MORRIS, arrives for a visit and meets Bob, who is angry over Helen's evasion and lack of explanation. Shallimor challenges him to a fight, and is surprised when he says, "I'd like to fall in love with you—to forget someone else."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXV

"NOTHING," Bob answered emotionally. "I'm merely telling you that I should like to fall in love with you. It would relieve me of a great unhappiness. I imagine."

"Well"—Shallimor's enthusiasm began to return—"can't you do it? Other men have."

"I mean to try," Bob told her, "after I've made you understand that it won't mean a thing to you—unless . . ."

"Please go on. This is most intriguing."

"Unless you should happen to fall in love with me," Bob finished calmly.

Shallimor laughed. "I'm half in love with you already," she declared. "And I'll do all in my power to make you care twice as much for me, provided that the same reservation goes for you in that case as you're putting up to me if I fall in love with you."

"You mean I'm not to take your love seriously, I suppose."

"Precisely; just as I am not to expect anything of yours."

"I don't think I'd want to marry you, however much I might be in love with you," Bob confessed.

"Well, that's a nasty crack," Shallimor complained.

"Entirely your own fault," Bob retorted. "I'm fed up on ultra modern girls who take everything in life for granted."

"I see. Some girl is responsible for the great unhappiness you speak of."

"Yes."

"And you want me to help you forget her?"

"Precisely."

Shallimor looked at him apologetically before answering. Finally, in a drawl, she said to him: "I wish I could afford to be serious with you, Bob Ennis."

"Fall in love with me and marry me?" Bob asked.

"Just that. But I'm too poor for it."

"Marriage will never mean anything to you until you've had a lot of experience with life," Bob warned her.

She sighed, albeit placidly, in agreement. "I'm afraid not. And so I think I'll accept your left-handed invitation to play at love and see what comes of it."

"Because the girl I'd like to forget is your friend," Bob explained.

"Of course; I knew that," she replied serenely, "but loyalty is such a complex commodity. One owes a bit of it to oneself, no?"

"Then you have no scruples about it? Not even the fact that you are her guest?"

"Dear boy"—she delighted in the use of these words that made her appear so much more sophisticated and knowing than the young man she addressed then to—"I shall do nothing underhand. That, I think, covers the ethics in the case."

"Then let's dance," Bob requested.

Shallimor rose slowly to her feet. Their eyes met, and she understood that he was acknowledging her strength. In his arms, she did not disappoint him. He willingly gave reins to his imagination and tried to become aroused to a tender feeling for her. But there was no flicker of the grand passion.

Beautiful she was, and a satisfying dance partner, but he had to admit that he could not plunge into even an infatuation for her. "But it might come," he persisted in thinking. And all the while not believing himself.

Shallimor did her best. Bob was gallant enough to hide from her his real feeling, which was fast becoming one of mild revulsion. He was doggedly determined to go through with the thing. If one could get out of love on the rebound he meant to rebound. "And keep on rebounding even if it hurts."

Suddenly, from Shallimor: "Have you thought," she asked, "that one hopeless love is as painful as another? Have you considered that, Bob?"

"I can't ever love anyone else so much as I love Helen," he answered, and Shallimor felt that he spoke a truth in spite of the generally fatuous character of the remark.

"There's this, too," she took up a little later; "we can't get far with this thing unless Helen invites me to remain at Bramblewood. I don't mind giving up the trip to Canada. Was going up to see my Aunt Kate, but she has neuritis and doesn't really want me anyhow."

"I believe you're clever enough to manage to wiggle an invitation out of Helen."

Shallimor flared a bit at that. "Do you realize that you're asking a lot from me?" she snapped.

"You started it," Bob reminded her.

"So I did," she was fair enough to admit. "Well, shall we say we're engaged? Then I can tell Helen it would break my heart to leave."

SHE was laughing at him but Bob squirmed just the same. "Let's not lie," he evaded.

"But you will give yourself every chance to learn to love me, won't you?" she pressed.

STRUCTURE OF DERRY CHURCH IS PRESERVED

Log-and-Clapboard Building Will Be "House Within a House"

Hershey, Pa. —(UP)—A house within a house is the nearly 200-year-old pastor's study on the grounds of Old Derry Church, one of the first churches established by Pennsylvania colonists, near here.

A glass-walled building is being erected around and over the little old log-and-clapboard building, erected in 1732, which served for years as the study of the pastor at Derry Church, an academy where the colonists' sons were prepared for college, and a kitchen where meals were prepared for the early settlers, who walked or rode miles to the morning service and remained for the evening rites.

The little study is 20 feet long, 14 feet wide, and one story high.

On concrete foundations around it has been erected a steel framework, with a slate roof. Glass is being fitted into the framework, so that the exterior of the building can be seen, while the decaying wood is protected from the elements.

The study is the only original building remaining of the old Derry Presbyterian Church, established in 1724, when meetings first were held in the open air.

Robert Evans First Pastor
A log study was built for the congregation in April of that year, and Robert Evans, Presbyterian missionary in the district, held the first services.

The first church was built in 1730, and William Bertram was established as the first pastor in 1732. This building was replaced by another in 1769. The fourth, and present church, was erected on the site of the old churches in 1884.

The session house, built near the side of the churches, contains many relics, some of which still are in use. There are the old pewter communion set, made in 1783 by King Richard of England; old, long-handled collection boxes bearing the date 1733; a walnut communion table and chairs, put together with wooden pegs, and dating from about the same time as the communion set; the old chairs and pulpit of the first church on the present site of "Old Derry," and a century-old Bible.

The building was leaning to one side, and the shingle roof was showing signs of decay, when M. S. Hershey, chocolate manufacturer, arranged for the glass-walled building to be erected to preserve the historic structure.

A framed inscription on the door of the study house bears the words: "Old Session House, Pastor's Study, Academy Built in 1732"

LOOK AHEAD!

FAR-SEEING people today recognize the necessity of protection against fire. But that is not enough, for it is impossible to stamp out the beginning of fires. Everywhere you look you find combustible material. These, when ignited, are small fires, but soon become out of control, which causes our great fires with an annual loss of $570,000,000 and an average of 15,000 lives. Most of this is preventable, by having fire fighting equipment within reach. The Fry-Fyter Company build dependable equipment from 1-Quart to 40-Gallon Engines—a size for every requirement. Do not depend on luck for protection, but install Fry-Fyter equipment. Let us recommend the proper size for your requirements. No obligation, of course.
